Cell Phone Etiquette

November, 2016

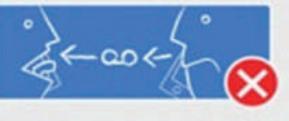

Cell phones have invaded our classrooms and our bedrooms, our restaurants and our theaters, our offices and our streets. CellPhones.org has put together a helpful list of cell phone etiquette tips. Check them out below.

Cell Phone Etiquette

Cell phones seem to make everyone ruder — but it doesn't have to be that way.

1. Lower your voice when taking calls in public.

2. Avoid personal topics when others can hear you.

3. Avoid taking calls when you're already engaged in a face-to-face conversation.
If you do take a call, ask permission of the people with you.

4. Avoid texting during face-to-face conversations.

5. Put your phone's ringer on silent mode in theaters and restaurants.

6. Don't light up your phone's screen in a dark theater.

7. Hang up and drive.
At any given time, about 3% of people driving are simultaneously talking on their phones.

8. Acknowledge the delay.
All phone calls involve latency, which means there's a delay between when you speak and when the other person hears it.

9. Don't use Google Voice call screening with family and close friends.

10. Don't blame the other person for a dropped call.
If you make 100 calls per week, you can expect to experience between 2–4 dropped calls each and every week.

CULTURAL SENSITIVITY

Cultural sensitivity is a set of skills that enables you to learn about and get to know people who are different from you, thereby coming to understand how to serve them better within their own communities. It enables us to extend respect and empathy to people of all backgrounds in a manner that recognizes, affirms and values their worth. These critical skills will enable health care workers to provide services across cultural lines in the best possible way.

Effective communication is essential in providing healthcare. Awareness of culturally related styles of communication will ease the process. Consider the following aspects of communication as you interact with individual patients.

- Silence: May be viewed as awkward in some cultures, or perfectly acceptable in others.
- Personal space: Varies according to culture
- Eye contact: The level of eye contact that is comfortable varies with each culture. If you are unsure, consider sitting next to the patient rather than across from the patient to reduce the need for eye contact.
- Body language: Gestures can be interpreted differently based on culture. Commonly accepted gestures in one culture may be considered offensive in another.
- Volume: Don't make the mistake of speaking louder to a person who has little understanding of English. Increased volume doesn't help.
- Formality: Seniors and people from certain cultures may view being addressed by their first name as too familiar and inferring disrespect. When in doubt, start with the more formal address ("Mrs. Ortega").
- Slang and technical jargon: Neither is recommended when communicating with patients.

Diabetes

Many PHHC clients, and even employees, have diabetes. Diabetes is defined as an elevated blood sugar, but there are many causes of an elevated blood sugar. To put it simply, one has Diabetes Mellitus when too much sugar is circulating in their blood stream. Sugar, also known as glucose, is an important and necessary fuel for our bodies. So necessary, that both the liver and the kidneys produce it naturally; however, we get the most sugar from the foods we eat.

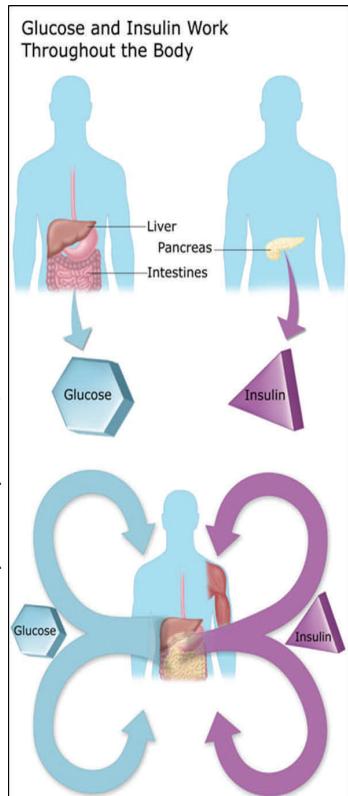

Diabetes is classified into different types, based on the various causes. The treatment will vary, depending on what is causing the problem. If you don't have enough insulin, sugar accumulates in your blood stream and you have diabetes. There are different factors that determine why you don't have enough insulin, and those factors determine if you have type 1, type 2, gestational diabetes or other types of diabetes.

- Type 1 Diabetes: when the body loses the ability to make insulin or can only make a very small amount of insulin. Type 1 diabetes is usually caused by an autoimmune process, and your body's immune system mistakenly destroys the insulin-producing cells. About 10% of individuals with diabetes have type 1 diabetes.
- Type 2 Diabetes: caused by a dual defect of resistance to the action of insulin combined with an inability to make enough insulin to overcome the resistance. Type 2 diabetes is the most common form of diabetes and represents 80% to 90% of diabetes worldwide.
- Gestational Diabetes: diabetes diagnosed during pregnancy.
- Other Types of Diabetes: a miscellaneous category that includes unusual or rare inherited or acquired causes of diabetes. This represents the minority of people with diabetes.

The key principles of medical management are:

- Regular blood sugar (and ketone) self-monitoring as a part of daily living
- Taking diabetes medications such as pills, injected medicines or even insulin
- Problem solving how and when to make adjustments in your medication doses to prevent high or low blood sugars
- Understanding complications and how to screen for, prevent and treat them.

Disaster Planning Vital Document Checklist

An emergency or disaster can erase the vital documents and records of our lives instantly if we aren't prepared in advance. Using the following checklist, collect all the important papers that apply to you. Make copies and store them in a weather proof tote or a large plastic zip-top bag. Keep your packet of documents in an easily accessible place so that you can get to it quickly in the event you need to evacuate in a hurry.

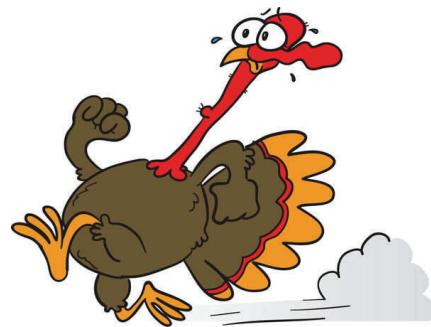

- Personal identification, such as passport, driver's license, voter ID card
- Personal Medication Record and medical and immunization records
- Social Security Card
- Health insurance cards
- Financial records like recent tax returns, retirement accounts, credit card numbers and records of any stocks or bonds
- Insurance policies
- Deed(s) to your house or other properties
- Family records like wills, birth, marriage, divorce, adoption, child custody and death certificates
- Legal titles (home, auto) and/or lease agreements
- Important phone numbers of family members, friends, doctors, insurers
- Records of passwords and personal identification numbers (PINs)
- Video and photo inventory documenting your valuables and the interior and exterior of your home
- Cash

Introducing Allison Hockin

Allison Hockin, Corporate Secretary, has been with PHHC since May, 2016. She enjoys the people she works with and her biggest challenge is juggling school, work, and a social life. She is currently in school to get her bachelors degree in Human Services. That takes up a lot of her free time, but when she does have free time she loves to cook, bake, play video games, catch up on favorite TV shows, walk her dogs, go to concerts, and spend time with friends and family. Alli and her boyfriend, Sean, have 3 furbabies, Keira (blue heeler mix), Walter (wire hair terrier mix, and Obi (great dane/lab mix). She was born in Houston, TX and lived there for a short time before moving to Thornton, Colorado, when Alli was in elementary school.

Thank you, Alli, for all you do for PHHC!

Have a great holiday!

BOULDER

Employee of the Month HIRUT ASSEFA

Hirut has been with PHHC since March of this year and works part-time with us as a PCP. She is wonderful with each of her clients. She is calm, very sweet natured and extremely caring. She is a perfect example of someone with a caregiving spirit and we are so lucky to have her as part of our PHHC team. In her spare time she enjoys spending time with her family, going to the movies and eating Ethiopian food. If she could live anywhere in the whole world she would live in Thailand.

Thank you for all your hard work Hirut!

- Maintaining Wellness
- Under
- High-Stress

Fifteen to 20 percent of adults report high job stress, but these same employees are less likely to participate in wellness programs. It appears that the more stress you face, the more at-risk you might be to neglect healthy countermeasures. High stress affects physical health, mental health, eating habits, and how you perceive your overall health. Avoid the downward spiral to ill health. Seek inspiration to become proactive in wellness. Experiencing high job stress? Don't wait to "feel like it" before engaging in a wellness program—go now!

DENVER

Employee of the Month

LAURA (VOTH) BARRYMAN

For November's employee of the month the Denver branch would like to recognize Laura (Voth) Barryman. Laura is a physical therapist and in her short time here has received many compliments from clients and the office staff alike. Laura is very caring and always on time and professional. She truly is a great representation of our company. Laura's favorite food is both pizza and ice cream, and if she could live anywhere in the world, she would want to live in New Zealand. Laura has done two medical mission trips to Peru and El Salvador, which is awesome! Keep following your dreams Laura; and keep up the amazing work!

We appreciate everything you do for us!

LONGMONT

Employee of the Month

KATHERINE

DUNBAR-MORSS

PHHC Longmont is proud to nominate Katherine Dunbar-Morss, RN, as our employee of the month for November. Hired in 2012, Katherine is a crucial part of our full time team of nurses. Katherine is well known for her skilled management of our most needy mental health clients – and for maintaining a contagious sense of humor at the same time. She reminds us all of how much home health care can impact people's lives for the better. Katherine is currently in the process of leaving her canyon home to the bears and moving down to more civilized neighbors that won't eat her car.

Thank you Katherine for all that you do!

PUEBLO

Employee of the Month

MIKE GRUBER

Our boss, Mike, is to be recognized, especially in consideration of the events in the past number of weeks with the “flooding” of our office. He was summoned late at night over the holiday weekend, and remained on scene until early morning, moving sodden objects and sweeping water. He single-handedly is orchestrating the whole project from water removal to construction, and there is much to be done yet! We are grateful for his leadership in all things! He has a 25 year background in the medical field, and handles a whole scope of duties. He has proven to be a compassionate leader, getting to know his team personally.

Thanks, Mike, for all you do and all you are!
